

James Madison Program
in American Ideals and Institutions

The Anchoring Truth that Still Comes as News:

The Pervasive Moral Logic of the Law

The Annual Herbert W. Vaughan Lecture on America's Founding Principles

Hadley Arkes

Edward N. Ney Professor of Jurisprudence and American Institutions, Emeritus, Amherst College

Founder and Director, James Wilson Institute on Natural Rights and the American Founding, Washington, D.C.

Sunday,
October 15, 2017

4:30 - 6:00 p.m.

Arthur Lewis Auditorium in Robertson Hall

James Madison Program
in American Ideals and Institutions

609-258-1122
jmp.princeton.edu

 PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

HADLEY ARKES is Edward N. Ney Professor of Jurisprudence and American Ideals, Emeritus at Amherst College. He is also the Founder and Director of the James Wilson Institute on Natural Rights and the American Founding in Washington, D.C., which teaches to lawyers, judges, and students those principles of law that furnished the guide to the American Founders as they set about framing a Constitution. Dr. Arkes was the main advocate and architect of the bill that became known as the Born-Alive Infants' Protection Act (2002). He has written seven books, five of them with Princeton University Press: Bureaucracy, the Marshall Plan, and the National Interest (1972), The Philosopher in the City (1981), First Things (1986), Beyond the Constitution (1990), and The Return of George Sutherland (1994). His most recent books have been with Cambridge University Press, including Natural Rights and the Right to Choose (2002), and Constitutional Illusions & Anchoring Truths: The Touchstone of the Natural Law (2010). His writings have appeared in the Wall Street Journal, the Weekly Standard, National Review, Crisis, The Catholic Thing, and First Things, a journal that took its name from his book of that title. Dr. Arkes received his B.A. from the University of Illinois and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

