Thursday, MARCH 14, 2019
4:30 - 6:00 PM
Bowen Hall 222
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions 609-258-1122
jmp.princeton.edu

JOANNE B. FREEMAN
Professor of History and American Studies, Yale University

An America’s Founding and Future Lecture

THE FIELD OF BLOOD

JOANNE B. FREEMAN

VIOLENCE IN CONGRESS AND THE ROAD TO CIVIL WAR

Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 2018

Thursday, MARCH 14, 2019
4:30 - 6:00 PM
Bowen Hall 222

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
609-258-1122
jmp.princeton.edu
JOANNE B. FREEMAN, Professor of History and American Studies at Yale University, is a leading expert on early American politics and culture. The author of the award-winning Affairs of Honor: National Politics in the New Republic, and editor of Alexander Hamilton: Writings and The Essential Hamilton, Professor Freeman is particularly well known for her expertise in dirty, nasty politics. Her most recent book, The Field of Blood: Congressional Violence and the Road to Civil War—a New York Times notable book of 2018 and a finalist for the Lincoln Prize—explores the impact and legacies of physical violence in the U.S. Congress in the decades leading up to the Civil War. Long committed to public-minded history, she has been a historical advisor for writers, documentary filmmakers, the National Park Service, and a playwright: Lin-Manuel Miranda used her work in writing Hamilton. A co-host of the popular American history podcast BackStory, she is a frequent commentator on PBS, NPR, CNN, the BBC, and MSNBC, and has written for the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, Atlantic Magazine, Time Magazine, and Slate Magazine, among others. Her Yale online course, The American Revolution, has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of people in homes and classrooms around the world. Professor Freeman earned her Ph.D. at the University of Virginia.