

James Madison Program
in American Ideals and Institutions

WHAT NOW?

THE 2016 ELECTION AND THE NEAR FUTURE

JOSHUA MITCHELL

Professor of Political Theory, Georgetown University

An America's Founding and Future Lecture

Thursday,

October 12, 2017

4:30 - 6:00 p.m.

Lewis Library 120

James Madison Program
in American Ideals and Institutions 609-258-1122
jmp.princeton.edu

 PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

JOSHUA MITCHELL is Professor of Political Theory at Georgetown University. He has been Chairman of the Government Department at Georgetown and Associate Dean of Faculty Affairs at Georgetown's School of Foreign Service in Qatar. During the 2008-10 academic years, he was the Acting Chancellor of The American University of Iraq-Sulaimani. His research interest lies in the relationship between political thought and theology in the West. He has published articles in The Review of Politics, The Journal of Politics, The Journal of Religion, American Political Science Review, Political Theory, and Critical Review. Professor Mitchell is the author of Not by Reason Alone: Religion, History, and Identity in Early Modern Political Thought (University of Chicago Press, 1993), The Fragility of Freedom: Tocqueville on Religion, Democracy, and American Future (University of Chicago Press, 1995), and Plato's Fable: On the Mortal Condition in Shadowy Times (Princeton University Press, 2006). His most recent book, Tocqueville in Arabia: Dilemmas in the Democratic Age, was published by the University of Chicago Press in 2013. He is currently working on a book manuscript entitled "The Politics of Guilt and the Politics of Hope." He received his Ph.D. and M.A. from the University of Chicago, an M.A. from the University of Washington, and his B.G.S. from the University of Michigan.

