GASTÓN ESPINOSA, 2016-17 James Madison Program William E. Simon Visiting Fellow in Religion and Public Life, is the Arthur V. Stoughton Professor of Religion at Claremont McKenna College and co-editor of the Columbia University Press Series in Religion and Politics. Espinosa served as president of La Comunidad of Hispanic Scholars of Religion at the American Academy of Religion. He is the author/editor of eight books, including Latino Pentecostals in America: Faith and Politics in Action (Harvard, 2014); Religion, Race, and Barack Obama's New Democratic Pluralism (Routledge, 2012); Religion, Race, and the American Presidency (Rowman & Littlefield, 2009), Religion and the American Presidency: George Washington to George W. Bush (Columbia, 2009); Mexican American Religions: Spirituality, Activism and Culture (Duke, 2008); and U.S. Latino Religions and Civic Activism in the United States (Oxford, 2005). He has also directed three national surveys on U.S. Latino religions and politics in 2000, 2008, and 2012, surveying more than 7,000 Latinos. He is currently researching and writing Latino Religions and Politics in American Public Life and The Spiritual Impulse of the Mexican American Civil Rights Movement. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of California, Santa Barbara.
